

BAM | BOISE ART MUSEUM

2019 SUMMER TEACHER EDUCATION PROGRAM

JULY 8-12, 2019: INTERDISCIPLINARY LEARNING — STREAM Institute

Develop visual art projects for STREAM* curriculum! Collaborate with teachers across subject and grade levels. Investigate artwork in the Museum and create art in the studios. This class focuses on integrating art into classroom curricula, building teacher knowledge and skills in the studio, and experimenting with hands-on, learner-centered facilitation. Participants will explore design thinking, meet with guest facilitators, and create projects and materials for use in their own teaching environments.

Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

Cost: $80 (includes supplies + lunch)

Instructor: Emily Nadel, Curator of Education

Register for two optional Boise State professional development credits the first day

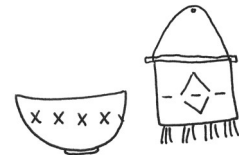

JULY 22-26, 2019: OBJECT-BASED LEARNING — Investigating Art + Craft with STREAM

Join with teachers across subject and grade levels to explore the Museum and create in the studios. Participants will investigate art and craft objects, learn techniques and processes, and forge connections with their own curricula. This STREAM* oriented institute will focus on making connections with the artworks of Stephanie Wilde and Sarah Sense, as well as ceramic and textile works on display at BAM. Participants will explore design thinking, meet with guest facilitators, and create projects and materials for use in their own teaching environments.

Monday-Friday, 9am-4pm

Cost: $80 (includes supplies + lunch)

Instructor: Emily Nadel, Curator of Education

Register for two optional Boise State professional development credits the first day

*STREAM—Science, Technology, Reading, Engineering, Art, Math
